Respect copyright laws

It is critical that users show proper respect for the laws governing copyright and fair use or fair dealing of copyrighted material owned by others, including CALL's own copyrights and brands. Users should never quote more than short excerpts of someone else's work, and always attribute such work to the original author/source. It is good general practice to link to others' work rather than reproduce it.

Respecting our Members

The public in general, and CALL's volunteers and members, reflect a diverse set of customs, values and points of view. Don't say anything contradictory or in conflict with our website. This includes not only the obvious (no ethnic slurs, offensive comments, defamatory comments, personal insults, obscenity, etc.) but also proper consideration of privacy and of topics that may be considered objectionable or inflammatory - such as politics and religion.

Controversial Issues

If users see misrepresentations made about CALL/ACBD in the media, please point that out to our National Office. Always do so with respect and with the facts. If users speak about others, make sure what is said is factual and that it does not disparage that party. Avoid arguments. Don't try to settle scores or goad competitors or others into inflammatory debates. Make sure what you are saying is factually correct.

CALL/ACBD reserves the right to retain ownership over all social media accounts created as an extension of our association.
