CALL/ACBD, as an organization that supports legal information specialists in a variety of workplaces, intends this re-opening guide to be a source of information to support decisions about how to safely provide services to law library clients.

INTERACTIONS WITH PEOPLE
Law libraries are places where people work and gather regardless of whether they are open to the public.

Consider the guidelines on Page 2 when developing a plan for interacting with people.

LIBRARY MATERIALS
Physical item circulation is a common activity in many CALL/ACBD member libraries. Members should develop safe circulation and library item handling practices. Innovate and be bold! Take advantage of the pandemic to explore how you can better serve your users through online resources.

Consider the guidelines on Page 3 when developing safe circulation and handling practices.

ADJUSTMENTS TO PHYSICAL SPACE
To ensure the health and safety of those inside, law libraries across Canada must re-evaluate their physical spaces upon re-opening.

Consider the guidelines on Page 4 if needing to adjust the physical space in your library.
When interacting in person with others:

- When possible, do not allow others to touch your personal workspace/equipment
- Maintain two meter distance between yourself and others
- Use flags or book marks to share information in physical materials, rather than passing books back and forth
- Use a desk or table to place materials on for a client then step back so they can review content.
- Encourage use of electronic (e-books, scanning) as much as possible
- If you can’t maintain two meters, suggest masks for staff and clients

| Solo Legal Information Specialist | - Set appointments to limit the number of people in your space
- Ask in-person clients if you can follow up with them by electronically
- Develop quarantine procedures for non-circulating items; consider wearing gloves to handle reserve material |
| Legal Information Specialist teams | - Maintain physical space when working with teams
- One team member per client whenever possible |
| Legal Information Professionals with spaces open to the public/large cohorts (50 clients or more) | - Ask in-person clients whether you can follow up with them electronically
- Limit public contact with reserve materials; consider scan and send or print and share where clients have capacity to receive service that way |
| Legal Information Professionals as Trainers | - Whenever possible use virtual training classes
- Use flags or book marks to share information in physical materials; do not pass books back and forth with clients; use a desk or table to place materials on for a client then step back so they can review physical content
- Limit class size for in person group training to maintain physical space; require masks
- Consider vendor training sources (i.e. LexisNexis Canada’s Legal Research Certification CanLexLearn, CanLII training videos) and offer group discussions to build relationships with your clients |
Physical item circulation is a common activity in many CALL/ACBD member libraries. We encourage you to develop safe circulation and library item handling practices to ensure that you, your colleagues and staff, and your clients remain healthy during the Covid-19 pandemic.

CALL/ACBD Recommendations for Safe Circulation and Handling Practices

Online Resources
- Promote and recommend existing online resources to your user group
- Contact your vendor partners to improve your clients’ access to online resources, especially those only available in the library

Print Materials
- Wear gloves when handling physical library materials
- Wash hands frequently or use hand sanitizer
- Check with your health authority for more safe hygiene practices

Circulation
- Suggest clients search your online catalogue and place holds over the phone or by email
- Develop a “curbside pickup” point at the entrance or outside your library
- Create informative signage
- Put out a separate bin for returns
- Time appears to be the most effective way to disinfect returned books: recommendations are 24 – 72 hours prior to recirculating items
As a community space and a workspace, libraries must conform to public health guidelines which may require reducing the number of people allowed in at a time, how close staff can work together and what to do with shared equipment.

Open Hours
- Consider reducing the hours the library is open, to allow more frequent sanitation

Access
- Lock main entrance during open hours
- Develop signage explaining how to enter (e.g. call when you’re at the door, book an appointment)
- Restrict after hours access; if unable to, ensure sanitation materials are available and request clients clean up after themselves

Limiting Numbers
- Be prepared to drastically limit the number of people in the library at one time
- Create a contact tracing log and record everyone who enters and exits

Use of Study Space
- Reconfigure study space from open plan to individual study carrels; remove chairs from tables to restrict the number of users at one table
- Create signs indicating chairs must remain where they are

Public Access Technology
- Shared computers and copiers must be sanitized after every use
- Consider disposable keyboard liners for high use devices
- Encourage clients to bring their own device if you can offer WiFi service

Information on New Library Procedures due to COVID-19 Pandemic

1. All users of the library must wear masks covering their mouth and nose at all times. If you don’t have a mask, see a staff member to get a disposable mask.

2. All users must maintain a social distance of at least two metres from other users.

3. If you need to come to the desk to speak with a staff member, please come to the area where the protective plastic sneeze guard is located.

4. See a staff member if you need to use any office supplies (such as a stapler or scotch tape).

5. See a staff member if you need to see one of our periodicals or if you want to take home one of our handouts.

6. Please do not reshelve any books.
